Foreword

The torch of maturity
From hand to hand does pass,
As mind and heart pace onward
Approaching each new class.

Accomplishments of others
Are equaled and surpassed;
Each runner makes his footfalls
More hastened than the last.

The race is swiftly ended
And life becomes the track
Of all the new tomorrows
But fondly I'll look back.

Ode to a Dental Hygienist

Hygienist, in your dental chair
I sit without a single care,
Except when tickled by your hair.
I know that when you grab the drills
I need not fear the pain that kills.
You merely make my molars clean
With pumice doped with wintergreen.
So I lean back in calm reflection,
With close-up views of your complexion,
And taste the flavor of your thumbs
While you massage my flabby gums.
To me no woman can be smarter
Than she who scales away my tartar,
And none more fitted for my bride
Than one who knows me from inside.
At least as far as she has gotten
She sees how much of me is rotten.

Call them off, Cozart!

Whittle while you work.

Just a token of our appreciation, Dr. Snyder!

Does sleep learning really work?

Caught you, didn't we?

A hygienist, huh?

Spatz, watch those tonsils!

If you're tired of it now, wait 'til next year!

Women aren't the only ones with dish pan hands.

You mean I've got to carve that?

Go to it, Elaine!

Cross your fingers, Ritch!

Back in the good ole days . . .

You had better get used to reaching for the stars!

Where's the closest bomb shelter?
